WHERE DO ALL THE WILDFLOWERS GO?

Presented By Joel Tuhy

We see our local wildflowers at their height of bloom. We admire their colorfulness and profusion. But then they fade away, and likewise fade from our minds ... until the next year, when we see and admire them again. What happens to the flowers in that interim time? It's that intervening span, between flowers fading in one year and seeing them again the next year, that will be our theme.

Thursday, April 25, 6:00 p.m.
